

For older children

Coloring is a sound form of correction.

Next time a child breaks a rule try giving him a coloring page or five or if a big offense...fifty. By the time he is finished coloring he will appreciate the value of staying inside the lines...your lines and Gods. He will also understand that you believe Bible verses are important.

Once a month color a page with your teen or pre teen...a reminder of the value of staying inside the lines.

Of all the decisions a teen must make the one that matters most is: “to believe or not to believe”.

If you color just one page with your teen make it this one.

The next 14 Coloring pages are our top choices for the teen years.

On TV and in popular music no one ever pays for their mistakes.

It is a bad lesson for teens.
In real life the rule is sin now
die later.

We hope you will visit

Nearly ALL bad habits start in the teen years.

A friend once told me “The best form of protest is an alternative.” The best alternative we know of to bad habits of any kind is regular church attendance

A child who does not believe God is real will not believe sin is real. Knowing sin is real and dangerous could save your child's life as well as his soul.

The one thing every child must KNOW is whether or not God exists and loves him. The only one who can give him this CERTAINTY is God.

1 Corinthians 12:3

Put your teen/preteen on the spot. Ask them if they KNOW. If they do not KNOW ask them if they want to know. God will answer ANYONE who asks. It is important to KNOW.

No one is ever too old for a Bible Verse.

The older you get the greater the need, especially for teens and pre teens. Coloring one page a month with teens and preteens can help parents remind their children in a way they will remember.

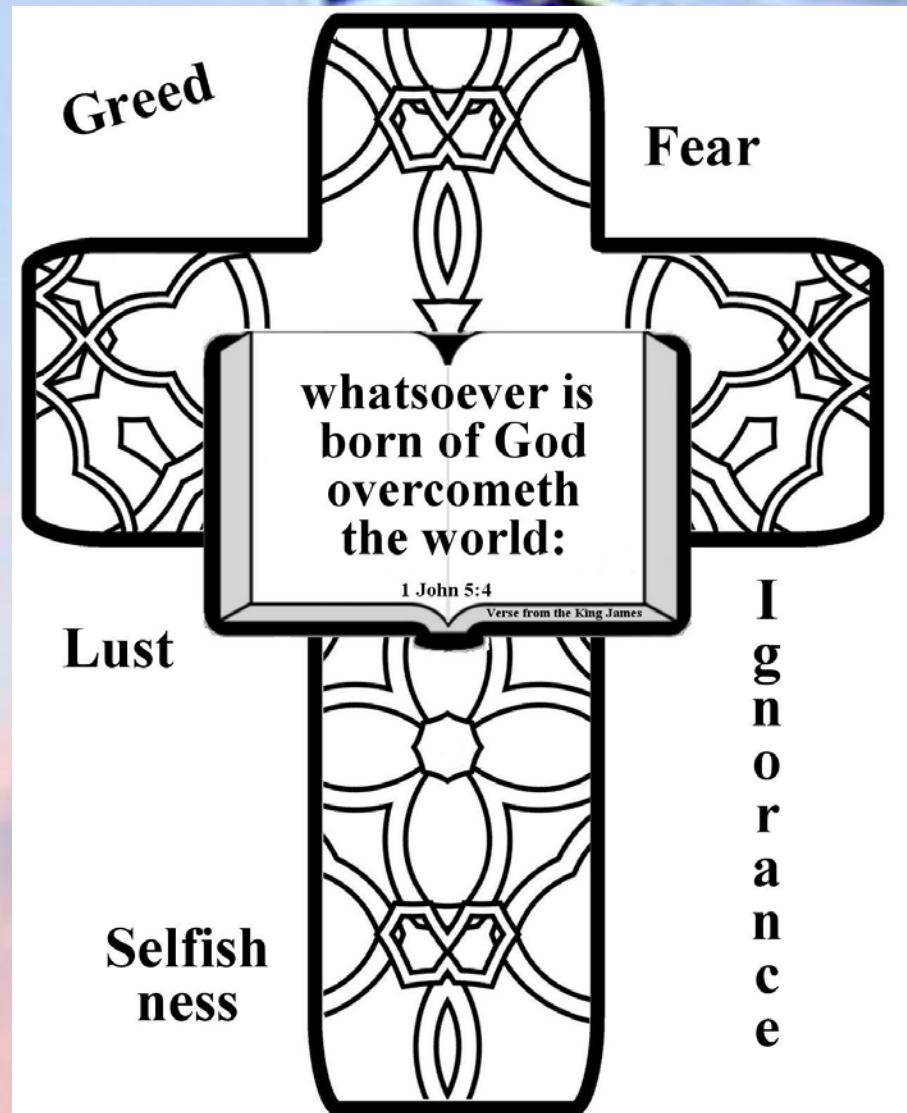

No one is ever too old to color a Bible Verse.

Believing in the power of love is not natural. It is supernatural...born of faith and of scripture. Guide your children toward scripture and God's supernatural power.

One of my favorite Bible Verses is Mark 9:24 which ends: “Lord, I believe, help my unbelief. “

That is what Bible Verses do for children. They help them believe one problem at a time, one verse at a time, one day at a time.

My grandmother had a plaque on her wall that gave the secret of a happy life:
“Something to do, someone to love, and something to hope for.”

To give teens a sense of purpose we highly recommend they read Rick Warren’s Book “The Purpose driven life”.

Children function best if they know what we expect. Maybe parents should color this page for each of their children... sort of a roadmap they will see each morning when they get up.
Hint: It's a dart board aim your kids at the bulls eye.

Coloring is a sound form of correction. LIFE is all about staying inside the lines.

“You smoked/got in a fight/didn’t tell me where you were going etc.. I think you should color about five (fifty) coloring pages and I know just the ones. “ Next time stay inside the lines.

Keep some on hand for the next time your child needs a little correction...OR... “something to do.”

To read the verse...the children will need a mirror.

To understand it they will need to pray.

Encourage both.

Without the help of a mirror
our eyes will not understand these coloring pages.
Without prayer our spirits
will not understand.
